Favored Rinks Win Opening Matches In Edmonton Bonspiel

Close, crisp play with the favored rink leading to form featured Monday morning's draw as the 23rd annual bonspiel of Alberta Curling Association got underway here.

The opening draw of the big bonspiel was won by the Edmonton Masters, who sent all 46 Edmonton entries into action. Closest struggle of the morning was between 18-9 who over Beccott's in a 13-end at the Royal Club.

Another close game was Marshall's 8-7 over the Ontario Granite. Manahan, twice winner of the Macdonald Brier, rates as one of the best ships with power on his rink. It was a long war. One son made it a nip and tuck struggle until the last rock was thrown. Kemp and his 18-10 team, from Royal, fought one of the neatest games of the draw before Kemp secured a 10-9 win. The Kemp rink scored no less than seven doubles.

Russ Foe Morale Is Unbroken By Raids Of Night Airmen

HELSINKI, Feb. 5—A new Russian practice, night air raids on Finland's blacked-out cities, was described definitely today by Finns as a doomed effort to break their morale.

For the past few nights, Russian planes have been flying far behind the Finnish lines. Finns, charging the Russians bombed at random on these flights, reported one of the heaviest raids last night on Vilnas, farms and forests.

Missiles fell throughout the dark hours, they said. Commenting that there was nothing in the area except agriculture, they called the raids a "desperate effort to terrorize the population."

"Little do our neighbors understand us, if they think what is happening will scare us into submission," declared one Finnish editor. "It is possible it will only make us fight harder."

Manion Fails To Clarify Stand On Best Brains Party

By GRANT DEXTER

Edmonton Bulletin Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA, Feb. 5—What does Hon. Dr. R. J. Manion, Conservative leader, mean when he advocates "a truly National government".

There is much confusion in the eastern press as to what Dr. Manion intends to do. And Dr. Manion, himself, has not clearly explained what is involved in this national government.

But before quelling Dr. Manion, it is well to remember that the questions which are being asked.

Does Dr. Manion intend to go to the polls? Is he in favor of a National Government party?

PERSONAL MANDATE?

Will he announce his government before the election day so that the electors will have time to know who they are voting for, or will he seek a personal mandate to form a government?

Or will he be given a mandate to form a government by the members of the legislature?

ROOSEVELT IS BIG FAVORITE TO RUN AGAIN

National Committeemen of Democrats See Him As Best Choice

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—Democratic national committee members, arriving in Washington for today's meeting, evinced more interest last night in whether President Roosevelt will run again than in the task of picking a day or two for the 1940 nominating convention.

All attention centred on the filing of petitions to enter the president's name in the Illinois primary, April 3. Edward J. Kelly, Chicago, and Patrick A. Nash, the national committeeman, sponsored the petition. Mr. Roosevelt made no comment.

"I don't know what you people are talking about," he remarked, "but I'm only candidate and we have a choice."

"It's like a stock horse alongside a bunch of platters. He is so far above the rest, there is no competition and that is the way the people feel."

Today's committee meeting will choose a convention city but may defer a choice of date until after the Republican national committee files a date for the G.O.P. convention.

Committee members expect the Illinois group will meet here Feb. 16.

Senator Claude Pepper, Democrat-Florida, and Senator George Mennen, Democrat-Michigan, also urged a third term for Mr. Roosevelt.

Japan's Claims

CHONGMING, Feb. 5.—Japanese claims to have surrounded large Chinese forces in South China near Nanking were countered yesterday by news that the Japanese had been driven from the far reaches of the Yellow river from northwestern Shantung province.

WOMEN LEADERS

General Ma's troops are reported to include two cavalry detachments commanded by two 21-year-old Maonan principals.

The Japanese engaged in pursuit of Mr. Ma's reported capture of Yankiang, 220 miles west of Paochien, after capturing Chongming, the island between the Yangtze and the Huang Ho and elsewhere on the Ordnance Plain.

Fifty thousand Chinese troops under Ma and General Fu-Yo-Qi, commander, were said to be in flight across the plain as the Japanese advanced rapidly and the invaders to the deepest point of their penetration into the continent.

Then comes this declaration:

SOF AS POSSIBLE

"When I form this government, I intend to do as little as possible. If I can get away with it, if I can keep all important parties in the house of commons, shall be represented in it, and if I can get away with it, the government would be kept out of such a government because of his political ambitions. Leaders in business and politics would be immediately included."

Dr. Martin was reported to say that a man should be a "practical labor and a practical agriculturist" minister of agriculture. He then submitted a memorandum to the Canadian government asking that he be given a seat in the House of Commons.

Another Japanese detachment was reported to have crossed the Yuki River, 100 miles west of Nanking in a northward movement for an assault on Nanking.

Another Japanese detachment was reported to have crossed the Yuki River, 100 miles west of Nanking in a northward movement for an assault on Nanking.

According to Chinese field dispatches, the Japanese column drove northward through the Yuki River valley, west of Nanking in a northward movement for an assault on Nanking.

The Chinese command said the Japanese had crossed the Yuki river, but said they were meeting stiff and determined resistance.

Murder on the High Seas

"Twenty-two of the crew lost their lives when Nazi raiders raked two life-boats filled with 37 men."

This short sentence tells a story of brutality at sea that would shock the sensibility of mankind and bring protests from every government deserving to call itself civilized were it not that similar stories have become common and protests are known to be useless. Nothing can stop such atrocities but the overthrow of the Government which orders them.

Their ship—a merchant ship of course—had been bombed and machine-gunned, ran ashore and caught fire. The sailors took to the boats to save their lives, only to be murdered, deliberately and without military purpose, by flying fiends. The airmen could, had they been so minded, have seen to it that their bullets missed the boats, and so have given technical obedience to orders while sparing helpless men. They chose to make themselves to bankrupt the country.

Such things make it hard to remember that we are fighting the Nazi government only, not the German people.

A Chance for New Business

Before the outbreak of war Germany had built up an extensive trade with countries in South America. In 1938 it supplied countries in that continent with more than 16 per cent of their total imports of $1,135,000,000. It also took a large amount of their products in return under the dollar-for-dollar barter policy. This trade was one of the profitable assets of Germany which Hitler cast away when he decided to stake everything on a throw of dice with fate. It is "gone with the wind" so far as German industries, industrial workers, importers and exporters are concerned.

Officials in the department of commerce have estimated that Canada is in position to capture some $247,000,000 worth of this trade which Germany has lost. We already do what has been considered a quite substantial amount of business with South American countries, totaling in the last fiscal year $12,256,000 of exports and $21,657,000 of imports from them. But these are small figures in comparison to the calculated opportunity for expansion. They suggest our trade with that continent may be increased eight or ten times if energetic efforts are made to realize this opportunity.

Since many of the South American countries produce for export the same kinds of farm products Canada produces in export quantities, it is the sale of other than farm products that will have to be sought there. In the main those countries import manufactured goods, hence Canadian industrial interests stand to benefit directly. These imports include railway and other heavy equipment and a long and varied list which takes in certain kinds of clothing and farm implements.

The outlook is for busy times in Canadian industrial centres if a resolute attempt is made to develop sales in South America, while at the same time keeping up the output of munitions and supplies for our own and the other Allied armies and peoples.

While less, the interest of western Canada in this industrial outlook is not less real than that of the eastern industrialized provinces. The more the manufacturers sell, abroad or at home, the more men they will employ, and the larger will be the demand for the products of western farms.

Unemployment Insurance

During the years of severe depression, any suggestion to set up an unemployment insurance system was met by the objection that the time was not favorable; so large a proportion of the population had no income that the drain on those who were earning would be insuperable. There was a good deal of merit in the argument. In fact the truth was so apparent that unemployment insurance was by common consent relegated to the list of proposals to be considered when times got better.

The times have considerably improved, industrial employment being at its highest all-time level, and general unemployment steadily declining. Accordingly the Dominion Government reopened negotiations with the provinces, the announced purpose being to introduce an unemployment insurance scheme at the session called for ten days ago. With the dissolution, and all other legislative proposals went over until parliament meets again. That the situation is now sufficiently improved to make it reasonable to undertake such a scheme most people will probably agree.

Not so the Montreal Gazette. It argues that "If war orders have increased employment to an extent which has apparently repelled economic distress, it needs to be realized that any betterment achieved under such circumstances is bound to be temporary," whereupon nothing should be done at present about introducing unemployment insurance. The reasoning is that whereas many of those now employed—and therefore able to contribute to the fund—may be unemployed after a while, the conditions are not favorable for setting up an insurance scheme.

The question arises: just what conditions would be suitable for instituting such a system, and when may we expect those conditions to come about? If unemployment insurance must not be attempted while unemployment is a nation-wide problem, nor when it is steadily shrinking toward normal proportions, the conclusion seems inevitable that there never was and never will be a time when in the judgment of the "antis" an insurance scheme could be set in operation to the general advantage, or even without threatening to bankrupt the country.

The Gazette is backing Dr. Manion in his plan to set up a cabinet of nameless "best brains" drawn from quarters not likely during an investigation a few years ago into welfare costs in the progressive city of Rochester, N.Y. Without consulting clergy, Raymond Smith, a painter, set up house with a frowsy young woman, Daisy Schuyler. Raymond brought into the home his illegitimate daughter, Grace, and Daisy brought in a three-year-old son of another named Gladys. In rapid order these arrived to cement the union. Raymond, Mrs. Steven and Nora.

Up till this time the father supported the family but after several moves to dodge payment of child support he was taken into custody of the family in the winter of 1938 and 1939. Thereafter they lived on charity. In the years from 1915 to 1919, four more evidences of their parents' virility arrived in the persons of Robert, Isabel, Louis and Clarence. The fact that all were mental cases is hidden behind organizations that fed and clothed the family.

By 1919 the fecundity of the second generation began to express itself. Grace, now 18, arrived home bearing her first-born illegitimate child. She was married and confinement of 16-year-old Gladys were celebrated. Thereafter Gladys and her husband embarked upon a separate career of raising a large family of defectives for the city to support.

From 1920 till 1923 three more children were born to the couple, and then there was no physical cause for such a breakaway. The history of twelve of the thirteen children is one of mental degeneracy, thefts, car stealing, sex perversion and general delinquency. Only Gladys, now 21, is still a virgin. She is a general intelligence and behaviour.

The car was really their undoing, for the first trip they made in it was to an adjacent town to be married according to law, and to legitimate their surviving 13 children. Presently they had got married in a church in a ditch, and though they were legally married, Mr. Smith commenced to beat his wife. So far as is known to us, 43 Mrs. Smith started in business on her own account as a street-walker.

All the children until adolescence were adopted by various charities and there was no physical cause for such a breakaway. ## The Passing Show

By J. S. COWPER

With the opening of the first state-supported birth control clinic in the State of New York a week ago, one of those hopeless subjects of dispute has been brought to public attention again. Discussion of birth control is hopeless because, taken by and large, advocates rely upon reason, while deniers rely upon emotion. For PLANNED BIRTH CONTROL is a political issue where the minds of the opposing forces can talk. The American Institute of Public Opinion took a poll of the subject, finding 77 per cent in favor of the dissemination of birth-control information to married persons, government health clinics, and 23 per cent opposed. One voter in every ten expressed no opinion.

The gradual collapse of our economic system, represented by growing armies of unemployed persons, public and private, has put a heavy load upon the nonworking majority. The taxpayer, as well as the unemployed breadwinner, is affected by this latter-day problem of planned parenthood.

Prof. Walter B. Pitkin, in his "Short Introduction to the History of Human Stupidity," cites a case of birth control which came to light during an investigation a few years ago into welfare costs in the progressive city of Rochester, N.Y. Without consulting clergy, Raymond Smith, a painter, set up house with a frowsy young woman, Daisy Schuyler. Raymond brought into the home his illegitimate daughter, Grace, and Daisy brought in a three-year-old son of another named Gladys. In rapid order these arrived to cement the union. Raymond, Jr., Steven and Nora.

Up till this time the father supported the family but after several moves to dodge payment of child support he was taken into custody of the family in the winter of 1938 and 1939. Up till this time the father supported the family but after several moves to dodge payment of child support he was taken into custody of the family in the winter of 1938 and 1939. Thereafter they lived on charity. In the years from 1915 to 1919, four more evidences of their parents' virility arrived in the persons of Robert, Isabel, Louis and Clarence. The fact that all were mental cases is hidden behind organizations that fed and clothed the family.

By 1919 the fecundity of the second generation began to express itself. Grace, now 18, arrived home bearing her first-born illegitimate child. She was married and confinement of 16-year-old Gladys were celebrated. Thereafter Gladys and her husband embarked upon a separate career of raising a large family of defectives for the city to support.

From 1920 till 1923 three more children were born to the couple, and then there was no physical cause for such a breakaway. The history of twelve of the thirteen children is one of mental degeneracy, thefts, car stealing, sex perversion and general delinquency. Only Gladys, now 21, is still a virgin. She is a general intelligence and behaviour.

Are Your Manners Above Criticism?

Be Poised When Guests Call
The first call of a new admirer—what a critical occasion it is! For the girl is revealed in her home background, her manners and the manners of her family are on parade.

Should she introduce her parents, what should she do, what should they do? How important to know this thing!

It's a courtesy to your beau to introduce him to your parents. As you introduce him, say "Please say his name first. Father, this is Richard Jones." And of course you may say your mother's name first or you may say "Mother" to a woman.

To acknowledge an introduction graciously, father shakes hands with your caller, mother nods amiably, makes a cordial smile. What about your manners when you and your date go on to a dance or to the theater? What's most etiquette to do there?

Our 32-page booklet gives the answers to these and dozens of other etiquette questions. Tells the complete story of dining, driving, motoring, visiting, the theatre, other occasions—for the younger generation.

Send 10 cents in coins for your copy of "Etiquette: The Correct Thing To Do." The Edmonton Bulletin, Home Office, 1025—10th Street, Edmonton. Alberta. Be sure to write plainly your name, address and the name of book.

San Francisco Has Earth Shock

SAFETY
SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 4.—Residents of the Sunset district, near the ocean, reported a light earth tremor about 10:30 a.m. The shock was strong enough to rattle windows and sway floor lamps.

If I were giving advice to a bride I would say: Use diplomacy. You are going to have to pay a lot of money for a wedding dress.

Don't do the things that irritate him. Don't drag into the conversation the subjects that you know beforehand are good for argument. Don't be afraid to make a mistake. Don't tell your husband the things that he should not do. If he does, let him know it is absolutely necessary that he should know it.

Don't talk too much. There are foolish wives who believe that they should tell their husbands everything that he does and that he says. This is not always welcome or whether you get the new car depends on the ability of your husband to earn the money for it.

—Whether he raises ructions over your clothes, your hair, your voice, your smile or extends his hearty welcome or whether you get the new car depends on the ability of your husband to earn the money for it.

Don't make jokes at your husband's expense and hold him up to ridicule. A man may grow to ridicule.

He is going to have a party at which twenty girls are expected to be present. A happy new game for the occasion suitable for a large group of girls would be beauty contest. Thank you.

What caused that? I wouldn't know. Probably he is a bit of a scamp and all that he does is to irritate us. He has many friends and it only made us feel bad about him. We were too critical. At any rate, he had lost faith in himself, which is fatal to rest.

Now for the child. He must get used to some roughage. He is also entitled to expect a certain amount of freedom. He is not always the best boy. He has never taken care of his clothes and never have his pride bolstered at all. He must have a good example to follow. Children learn vicariously if they hear their mothers and fathers are not good examples.

The inferiority child, as I have said, won't ever be entirely cured by it. He simply has to do the best he can. He is not born with a "complex" or fixed idea about his worthlessness.

He is easily swayed to remember. Not enough to forget. There are many things best forgotten, broad and simple.

He is easily swayed to forget.

Don't tell your husband about all your little trifles with your family. Long after you have forgotten what you said, the children will be surprised to find out that he doesn't like your people and respects the way they treated you.

Don't spoil his evening at home by telling him of the naughty things that the children have done.

Don't tell him about your own problems as you go to bed.

Don't tell your husband about all your mistakes when you are stung on the bargain counter. Let it away on the back shelf and don't bring them back again.

Don't bring heavy biscuits into the garbage bin, on the subject, but when you get home, the place and the bins are light as thistle down, blow your own trumpet.

And, finally, daughter, ask your husband's advice. You don't have to like him and doesn't hurt him if it pleases him and doesn't hurt you, and it makes for peace.

ADVANCE MADE IN EDUCATION,
OPTIMISTS TOLD

Alberta has made "outstanding advances" in education in recent years, Dr. M. E. Lazerle, director of the Alberta Education Department, told the Edmonton Optimist Club Monday evening at the Macdonald Inn.

In 1935, he said, there were only 2,400 pupils in Alberta schools, whereas now there are 170,000. There were only 365 high school pupils in 1935, while there are now 30,000.

Although in 1935 only 10 per cent of the teachers had grade 1 training, the number of university graduates on school staffs, with many hundreds of teachers having first class certificates, Dr. Lazerle said.

Alberta now has the "best Dr. Lazelle maintained, the province for study in the field of pure education, provided funds could be obtained for this purpose."

Appealing for fair compensation on behalf of the teachers, Dr. Lazelle said the new unit had many educational advantages and urged that financial aid should be based on a review of all the facts.

Appeal was made for federal aid to educational institutions without federal subsidies. He said some such system would have to be worked out, if education is to continue to advance in Canada.

Applications Are Made For Private Bills

Applications have been made to the legislature for private bills to be introduced at the legislative session starting next week, according to B. A. Andison, clerk of the house. Mr. Andison stated that Monday was the last day to file applications before the permanent provision in rules covering private bills takes effect.

Applications have been filed by this city and Calgary, for charter amendments.

The Alberta Wheat Pool seeks amendment to the Wheat Pool Act of 1929, altering the capital structure of the pool and making it subject to membership by vote only.

The fourth is an application for incorporation of the Western Investors Company, which proposes to insure against fire, theft, personal leakage, use and occupancy, rent, profit and other features of the business.

MANION EXPECTED

ON WESTERN TOUR

Terstishe for the visit of Hon. R. J. Manion, leader of the National Conservative party, to Edmonton is February 14, it was announced here Monday. This date is subject to revision. Hon. Dr. Manion will address a meeting in this city on his western campaign for the federal election of March 26.

He is survived by his wife, one daughter, Mrs. Sophie Peace; and one brother, Robert of Vancouver. Funeral service will be held at the Anglican church of All Saints' Funeral Chapel, Rev. W. H. Hatfield officiating. Interment will be made in the Edmonton cemetery.

North Hockey Game

FAUHER, Alta., Feb. 5—Displaying a fine record, the Edmonton Eskimos beat the North Stars 3-1 in their third game of the season yesterday at the ice rink on Jasper avenue.

Bert Matthews of Peace River was the star of the game, scoring two goals. Dumont got Father's long count late in the third period on an assist by Hardy.

Another little fellow, appeared to be about 10 years old, skated a bottle of beer and a package of raisins from a store and was caught in the act, pleaded guilty, then paid his fine and turned over the cash, let her off with a fine of $5 to which he added $4 costs. Now I know why Tim-Tos said you can't buy beer or sweets, but they aren't cheap!

Threat Of Invasion Is One More Burden In The Belgian King's Tragedy-Haunted Life

With the tragedy of a second invasion hanging over his country, Leopold III, King of the Belgians, has furthered every effort to strengthen his army. Above, he reviews troops at Brussels.

BRUSSELS. Feb. 5.—If the Nazis plunge their arms through Belgium in the endeavor to outflank the French Maginot line, the international spotlight will once more fall upon the tragic king of a tragic little country.

It is doubtful whether any region suffered as much in the last war as did Belgium.

Also it is doubtful whether any head of a state in all the world has had so many tragedies in his own life as has the belated Leopold III, the 38-year-old King of the Belgians.

At 13, an age when most boys are at school, and even the poor ones have some fun with their companions, Leopold accompanied his father, King Albert I, in his retreat from the front. At 16, before the overwhelming mass of invading German troops, Leopold left his palace home in Brussels, his possessions, books, his precious possessions.

New Soldiers' Hardships Early

When the retreat was finally stopped, the Belgians were only left with a tiny northwest patch of their country, which they defended for the following year. Here he kept his son. In fact, he made the boy, at 14, join the troops and take his turn as a soldier, and all the rest of the hard work of a private soldier.

Then came the peace and the restoration of his country. Belgium was free once more. The King lived in his palace once again. Leopold went to Elou-

BEGLIN IN THE MIDDLE

His time as King since then has not been without trouble. There were economic and social difficulties, political crises, and then, with the rise of Hitler and his Nazis, King Leopold faced a new danger for his country and himself.

Before that, it had been the virtual military ally of France. Once more France and Germany recognized its neutrality.

But now, as the tragic possibilities for a little country wedged in between France and Germany, he supported the Parliamentary program to build up the strength of the Belgian army.

So, as the clouds of war once more darken her borders, Belgium is as ready as a small but rich country can make itself against a great power.

Holland's Soldiers Expert on Skates

They're not engaged in winter sports, these fighting men of Holland, but are racing along the ice on skates during maneuvers "somewhere in Holland." Ice-skating is very easy for these men who, like most of the people of the little country, were practically brought up on the ice.

Prime Minister Inspects First Aerial Squadron

Defence Minister Norman Rogers presented the 10th City of Edmonton Squadron with its first battle flag in a ceremony at Rockcliffe Airfield, Ottawa, during a ceremony when the squadron was inspected by Prime Minister King. The 10th will be the first Canadian unit to go

Consecrated

Reassuming his duties as president of the University of Notre Dame, the Most Rev. John F. O'Hara, consecrated at a Mass of Ministrants ceremony on the campus. Bishop O'Hara will also serve as auxiliary bishop of the U.S. Army and Navy forces. The Milisus Bishopric is vacant.

Match This

All you folks who have at one time or another struggled to light a wet or slightly damp match, here's your answer. Joseph Landers, above, of Albany, N.Y., has a preliminary patent on a special formula that makes a water-soaked match as good as the dried.

They're Helping to Win the War of the Allies

Members of the British Auxiliary Territorial Service are seen above marching smartly past the starting line during a run at a camp by Mrs. Chamberlain at a barracks in London.

Mrs. Catt, 81, Dame Rumor Hath It Has a New Cat

Reveals Plan

New plan to spend $4,000,000 to fortify and improve harbor at Gaspé, Quebec, will be headed by Admiral Harold Stark, Chief of Naval Operations, before House Naval Affairs Committee. Proposed bill for similar project was defeated in Congress last year.

The grasping telegraph of romance rumors has already been tapped out the name of guitar player Sweeney and linking it with that of the Clowns' Mayor, to Revere, the former Barbara Hutton, constantly seen together, as in this picture from Palm Beach, Fla., their companionships passing for him they'll wait.

Inspector General Ashton Has Had Long and Colorful Military Career

BY M. McDONALD
In retirement for only a few months after a long and honorable career in the military service of his country, General Ashton again is serving the colors.

He was appointed inspector-general of the forces, and in this capacity he has the advantage of his genuinely outstanding administrative ability.

In spite of his 46 years of continuous service, General Ashton is active and youthful enthusiastic, and one may be sure that he answers the call again.

This does not mean that time has hung heavy on his hands since his retirement. As a matter of fact, he was rather eager to get well-exerted rest from public duty. He has never been a harp with a single string. His interests are varied.

He is a naturalist of no mean repute; he is a keen botanist, and his friends say he believes that there is a wild flower plant in Canada that he doesn't know the name of, both in common and the scientific names. It is a small flowering plant along the slope of a hill somewhere in British Columbia; he has been told it is a species of bellflower, leaves of a rare species of wild orchid.

He carefully dug up the plant, potted it and sent it to Ottawa to be forwarded to Lady Binning, who had taken the greatest interest. General Ashton received grateful thanks from Lady Binning and the word that the plant was a welcome addition to her collection.

As a boy General Ashton spent his days among greenhouses and the garden of his father's farm near Bradford, Ontario, helping his father with his work.

He was born in 1873 in Bradford, Ontario, and his father, General Edward Ashton, was principal of the Mohawk Institution, an Indian school.

It was in that institution that he learned the organizing ability which later gave him an enviable reputation in the army. In 1901 he became a medical officer in the Canadian General Hospital for Sick Children in Toronto in 1898 and 1899, and in the same year he was appointed to the staff of the Muskoka College, Ontario.

He was in that position until 1903.

He married in 1898, and his wife died in 1903.

He was promoted to the rank of colonel in May, 1915.

General Ashton took the greatest interest in his father's work, and for a time taught the Indian children of the Mohawk Institution. He was a member of the Canadian Expeditionary Force. He was appointed to command the 36th Battalion of the Canadian Expeditionary Force. He was promoted to the rank of colonel in May, 1915.

MAJOR-GENERAL E.C. ASHTON
a metallist in 1898. From that time until the war he practiced his trade in various parts of Canada, under his jurisdiction were models of efficiency.

In 1917 he had charge of the 12th Canadian Infantry Battalion out in Nomansland, one of whose men was given a double trip to Canada to assume command of the 12th Battalion. He was raised to the rank of major-general in 1920, and in 1921 he was promoted to the rank of brigadier-general of the Canadian Expeditionary Force.

He was promoted to the rank of general in 1923, and in 1924 he was promoted to the rank of major-general of the Canadian Expeditionary Force.

He was promoted to the rank of general in 1926, and in 1927 he was promoted to the rank of general of the Canadian Expeditionary Force.

He was promoted to the rank of general in 1928, and in 1929 he was promoted to the rank of general of the Canadian Expeditionary Force.

He was promoted to the rank of general in 1930, and in 1931 he was promoted to the rank of general of the Canadian Expeditionary Force.

INTER-VARSITY GROUP WORKER IS CITY VISITOR

Christian Fellowship Offi- cer Addresses Meeting Series

C. Stacey Woods, Toronto, general secretary of the Inter-Varsity and Inter-School Christian Fellowship, was guest speaker at the second meeting of the series at First Baptist church.

Patching up old moral life is not enough if a man is to experience true spiritual growth. He must, with the aid of God, create a new life, built on a sense of personal responsibility. This is the purpose of working for God in the world, that may demonstrate for others the value of a spiritual existence.

Addressing University students, Mr. Woods discussed the problems in regard to curriculum, and the general courses. Other discussion groups were held for students of the normal school, students regarding vocational guidance, and other phases of university life.

He left Monday morning for the Pacific coast to attend conferences at the universities of Vancouver and Washington before proceeding to Toronto via Chicago.

Interdenominational services were preached on Sunday evening at Grace Lutheran church by Rev. C. I. Klewer, newly appointed pastor of the church. The minister spoke of his pleasure in accepting the call to the church, stating that he would do all in his power to aid the congregation in their efforts.

Coming from the pulpit of the temple of the Lord located in the Scriptures, Rev. ## MILITARY MEN STUDY MODELS IN ENGINEERING

Ministerial demonstration models of bridges and other works for construction of which engineers are required to do active service have arrived at the Edmonton office of the Royal Canadian Engineers by telegram from London, England. The contract depends on permission from the Dominion government to build a bridge across the River Seine at Paris.

The plant will be built near Prosperous and Bluff lakes. A large amount of machinery is ready to be transported in as soon as the investigation is over and some of the machinery already on the ground.

DUAL ELECTORAL

"It appears," the memorandum stated, "that a teacher who may be teaching a dual residence and the residence of another person in the electoral district in which her place of residence while teaching in another place, may be registered in the electoral district in which the home of her parents is situated. It goes without saying, however, that teachers who are registered in one place only in one electoral district at a general election."
